

Christian Historical Fiction

This list was commissioned by a patron who reads in a wide variety of Christian fiction genres—inspirational, romance, historical fiction—and was looking for recommendations. She particularly enjoyed the works of Karen Kingsbury, Jan Karon, Debbie Macomber, and Francine Rivers. I have broken the recommendations down by genre across several lists.

- Lynn N. Austin's books. Christian historical fiction with dashes of humor and romance added in. Her Chronicles of the Kings series is about the Biblical kings of Israel. The Restoration Chronicles series is about the events relayed in the Biblical books of Ezra and Nehemiah. The Refiner's Fire series is about women during the Civil War, including Northerners and Southerners, free and enslaved.
- T. Davis Bunn's books. Christian historical fiction recommended for Francine Rivers fans. A bit more action-packed than other books in this genre. His Acts of Faith series is about a young Jewish woman in 1st century Palestine, who is drawn into investigating a murder.
- Sara Mills's Allie Fortune series. Christian mystery series about a determined female private investigator, set in 1940s New York City amidst the drama of the Cold War.
